BOOKPLATE ENDOWMENT

Yes, I want to help the James Monroe Foundation by giving to the Bookplate Endowment fund.

To preserve the books in the James Monroe Memorial Library, President Monroe's great great grandson, Laurence Gouverneur Hoes, instituted a plan whereby each book would be endowed with a gift. The benefactors of the book plate endowment will write his or her name and/or someone he or she wishes to honor on an adaptation of a bookplate belonging to President Monroe. The endowment is in perpetuity, the name of the endower, the name of the person honored and the date being cross-indexed in the Library files for perpetual identification. The name will be recorded in a leather-bound book and exhibited in the museum. The facsimile of the Monroe bookplate along with the handwritten names of the benefactors and those honored will remain in the archives of the museum through the continued stewardship of the James Monroe Memorial Foundation.

There are two forms you may use to make your endowment. The first is "in honor of" the person or persons for whom you will be making the gift. The second is "in memory of" the person or persons for whom you will be making the gift.

Please fill out the following information. Then, fill out the appropriate form.
